A Few Thoughts About How We Compose Our Wine List and How We Understand the World of Wine in General...

Numerous vendors and wine makers reach out to us and come by to share their products, with 100's of wines being tasted monthly.

Our goal is to find you the best varietal specific, quality and price. We are thoughtful of how we are pricing our glass pour and bottle list as well, by not copying industry standard of 3 to 4 times markup. Our cost will translate into an affordable wine at anyone's price range ... or for any occasion.

Terroir: unable to be translated from French, is a term thought by many Anglo Saxons to be a Galic Fancy. A mystical way of asserting the superiority of French soil and landscape, but is evident even in our own gardens, with many terroir probable.

The only mystery about terroir is how it translates into the wine in our glass.

How we choose our bottles on this list has a lot to do with just that. A sense of place, such as soil, climate, landscape, or also known as total natural growing environments. This all equals Terroir.

That being said, we have a focus on soil and varietal specific Terroir from France and surrounding European vineyards. Notable vineyard sights outside of Europe are also showcased.
